As we work to reframe the way we talk about heritage and the way in which we develop, implement and evaluate heritage projects, we can change public attitudes about heritage, build understanding about the power of the past and leave a valuable legacy for future generations.

KEY FOCUS AREAS

RESEARCH

Research highlighting the multiple connections between Living Heritage and quality of life issues ensures Heritage Saskatchewan's relevance not only within the heritage community but across the country and around the world.

We create opportunities for conversations about our values, beliefs and living – in other words, our Living Heritage – that builds the foundation for negotiating a shared future.

Evidence-based and values driven processes and information are essential to confronting the issues of our times. Research at Heritage Saskatchewan focusses on understanding Living Heritage as the foundation to acting locally and thinking globally.

Our current work includes: The Saskatchewan Index of Wellbeing; partnerships with Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy and other organizations and agencies; policy briefs, documents and videos on Living Heritage.

Living Heritage are those values, beliefs and ways of living we inherit from past generations that we still use to understand the present and make choices for the future.

BUILDING COMMUNITY

Living Heritage is fundamental to our sense of identity, belonging and place, and integral to building community.

Resilient communities are those built on cross-cultural understanding and the willingness and ability to negotiate a shared set of values and a shared future.

Our focus is upon engaged citizenship through community development initiatives and educational programming; and safeguarding Intangible Cultural Heritage (ICH) as a part of holistic approaches to community development. A sampling of our work includes: Heritage Fairs; Awards program; Ecomuseums; and ICH initiatives.

LEADERSHIP

Heritage Saskatchewan is an agent of change. In meeting the ever-growing challenges of globalization - technology, climate change, shifting demographics, polarization within communities - we are adaptive to change. Heritage Saskatchewan is cognizant of the need to reimagine and negotiate a shared future, one where we will think globally and act locally.

The partnership across sectors continues to be important to Heritage Saskatchewan as we engage in meaningful dialogues regarding Living Heritage.

Our current work includes: Acting as the Heritage Community of Interest for SaskCulture Inc.; working with agencies in the private, public and non-profit sector at the provincial and national level; and establishing diverse partnerships across many sectors.

Individual members of Heritage Saskatchewan, who are paying $26.50 (GST included), may become members of Heritage Regina for only $10.

For the fifth consecutive year, Heritage Saskatchewan has partnered with the National Trust for Canada (the Trust) so our members can acquire a free membership as part of their Heritage Saskatchewan membership.

The National Trust for Canada is the only national registered charity that makes a difference for places that matter to Canadians. We are an essential resource for people who care about historic places – offering services, tools, inspiration and funding for Canadians working to save places that matter, and a recognized brand for discovering great heritage places to live, learn, work and play.

Members of Heritage Saskatchewan may subscribe to a free membership with the Trust and will receive the following benefits:

- free entry at historic sites in Canada
- free entry at National Trust properties in the UK, USA, Australia, and more!
- reduced rates for National Trust conferences
- voting privileges

And, for a special price of $20, Heritage Saskatchewan members can add on a subscription to the Trust's bilingual national magazine, Locale, with four digital issues and a bonus print issue delivered to your mailbox – plus more great heritage stories available anytime online. See the Application Form for details on how to join the Trust.
