Time Commitment for Board Members

BOARD MEETINGS

Between four and six Board meetings are held annually. The dates are set immediately following the Annual General Meeting, allowing Board members to plan for the year ahead. Several of the meetings may be in-person, while others will be conference calls or may be virtual meetings (using Zoom or other platforms). In total, the Board will meet for approximately forty (40) hours over the course of the year. It should be noted that if Board meetings are held using virtual platforms, then the length of time spent in board meetings is diminished

POLICY MONITORING

A responsibility of all board members is to participate in the annual schedule of policy review and monitoring. This is accomplished outside of board and committee work. Time spent on each policy varies but averages less than one hour with each board member monitoring an average of four to six policies for an approximate time commitment of four (4) to six (6) hours annually.

BOARD ORIENTATION

In April, the first full Board meeting following the Annual General Meeting takes place. Besides regular Board work, a portion of the day is dedicated to Board Orientation for all Board members. This is an opportunity for returning and new Board members to get to know one another and learn to work together; and for all Board members to gain an understanding of the organization and its governance. The length of time for this session is about five (5) hours. Prior to this meeting, those individuals who have been elected for the first time to the Board will receive a one-on-one orientation that includes the CEO and one or two Board members. This session is to familiarize the new member with Policy Governance and Ownership Linkage in particular; as well as for the individual to begin to start to get to know some of the other Board members. The amount of time for this session is about two (2) hours, and is usually held over either lunch or supper.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

Heritage Saskatchewan's AGM is held in late February. Heritage Saskatchewan's fiscal year end is November 30, and holding the AGM within three (3) months of fiscal year end is necessary in order to comply with corporation requirements. The AGM is required, as per the Corporations Act, to report to the membership on the organization's past year, present the annual audited financial statement, and to elect Directors. Board members are expected to attend. The AGM is about one (1) hour in length.

OWNERSHIP LINKAGE

The Board is responsible for linking with the legal and moral ownership of the organization. The moral ownership is defined as the 'people of Saskatchewan'; and the legal ownership is the membership. Accordingly the Board will link between the organization and the ownership by: 1) implementing a perpetual, systematic and thoughtful ownership linkage plan; and 2) reporting to the ownership on the results of linkage and the Board's own work on a regular basis, through means including (but not limited to) the Annual General Meeting and reports presented there. Engagements sessions could include engagements with community-based organizations and provincial organizations, institutions, others; and other initiatives as deemed appropriate.

COMMITTEES

Directors are expected to participate on committees. There are five (5) Board Committees – Executive, Audit, Nominations, Governance and the Performance Evaluation & Compensation Committee (PECC). The Governance Process (GPs) specifically identify which Directors (President, Past President and Vice President) sit on each of these committees, with room for Directors at large. Tasks and time spent on these committees varies to the task but an estimated average per committee is four (4) to ten (10) hours per year. A calendar outlining the timing for tasks related to each of these committees has been developed and can be referred to when considering involvement on any of the Board Committees. Additional work is required should the board engage in other initiatives.

Policy Governance

Heritage Saskatchewan operates under a Policy Governance framework as its means of governing the organization. Policy Governance was developed by Dr. John Carver in the mid-1970s “as a collection of principles and concepts that make sense as a whole”. Dr. Carver describes governance as a “downward’ extension of ownership, not an ‘upward’ extension of management.”

Policy Governance is one way of ensuring that the board is concentrating its efforts in the right area – governance. It is an effective and efficient method of leading.

Policy Governance is a model of governance designed to empower board of directors to meet their obligation of accountability for the organizations they govern. The model enables the board to focus on the larger issues, to delegate with clarity, to control management's job without meddling, to rigorously evaluate the accomplishments of the organization; and to truly lead their organization.

In contrast to the approaches typically used by boards, Policy Governance separates issues of organizational purpose (ENDS) from all other organizational issues (MEANS), placing primary importance on those Ends. Policy Governance boards demand accomplishment of purpose, and only limit the staff's available means to those which do not violate the board's pre-stated standards of prudence and ethics.

The Board's own Means are defined in accordance with the roles of the board, its members, the chair and other officers, and any committees the board may need to help it accomplish its job. This includes the necessity to "speak with one voice". Dissent is expressed during the discussion preceding a vote. Once taken, the board's decisions are not subsequently to be undermined. These Means expectations also set out self-imposed rules for the board regarding the delegation of authority to the staff, and the criteria by which staff performance will be evaluated. Policy Governance boards delegate with care. There is no confusion about who is responsible to the board for meeting board expectations. Double delegation is eliminated. Furthermore, boards that decide to use a CEO function are able to hold this one function exclusively accountable.

Evaluation is nothing more than seeking an answer to the question "Have our expectations been met?" The board, having clarified its expectations, can assess performance in that light. This focused approach reduces the mountains of paperwork boards often feel obliged to review. Moreover, those boards which worry that they are only furnished the data management wants to give them find that, in stating their expectations and demanding a relevant accounting of outcome, they have effectively taken control of their major information needs. Their staff no longer has to read their minds.¹

The model is owned by the Board and cannot be interpreted by anyone else. Policy Governance requires a commitment by the board to work at a deeper level than is usually the case in non-profits. It demands that the board discipline itself so that it is doing its job, and doing its job appropriately.

Governance Policy Categories

- 1. Ends – the benefits the organization is to produce, for which people, at what cost or worth. Ends are developed based on the Board's knowledge of and interaction with the "owners"—those to whom the Board is morally accountable.
- 2. Executive Limitations (ELs) – the boundaries of prudence and ethics within which the Board allows staff to make further decisions about means, the way things are done.
- 3. Board–CEO Relationship (BCs) – the manner in which the Board delegates authority to staff through the CEO and measures staff performance through evaluation of the CEO.
- 4. Governance Process (GPs) – the manner in which the Board itself operates, including its philosophy, accountability, discipline, and its own job.

With these policies in place, the Board can delegate the achievement of the Ends to the CEO, be assured that they are in fact being achieved, and that the manner in which this occurs does not exceed the Board's boundaries of prudence and ethics. This assurance is based, not on "trust," but on a carefully structured monitoring process.²
